Hi Jenna. I talked to my team about that, and the consensus is approximately $350K.

Hi John,

How much do you think it will take to do the arbitration against PayPal? That's one thing that Pravati Capital asked me. What do you think?

Based on the description of facts you provided to me when we met, the cost of arbitrating your dispute is not less than $250,000 and likely more than that depending on how aggressively it is defended.

That is the extent to which I can help you. Good luck

Circling back on this one with Jenna against PayPal, I conferred with my team and the consensus is approximately $350K including fees and costs. Let me know if you have any questions. I still have a couple other cases I will be sending you. Hope everyone had a nice holiday weekend.
